THE ELEMENTS' PROTEST.

Warning to the Claps Who Think the Fish Story Teller is Safe.

Emmet Washburn and Irving Smith were on their way to Wilbur's mill, near Pinesville, in upper Delaware valley, the other day. Washburn was driving a team of valuable young horses.

The sun was shining brightly over their heads, but the sky to the northward was black with thunderclouds. The last thing Washburn remembered while they were driving along was that he was listening to a fish story Smith was telling him, when suddenly there came a frightful crash over their heads and a flash of intense light.

The next thing Washburn remembers as his fading himself lying in the bottom of his wagon, with Smith lying by his side.

After awhile he was able to rise and look about him. Both of his horses lay dead in the road. Smith, however, was still sitting up, and the thunderclouds in the north had broken away. A thunderbolt from a char sky had evidently hit upon them. Each horse had a hole in its back. Smith was wearing a pair of blue overalls, with a patch on each knee. The patches were gone, having been cut out around the edges as if by the separation was done with a pair of shears. The rim of Washburn's straw hat had been cut entirely away in the same manner.

Neither of the men was injured in the slightest degree, but each felt a strange numbness in his body and limbs for two hours. They turned the horses at the roadside.

A peculiarity of this freak of freely lightning is that while Smith can remember distinctly the story he was telling Washburn up to the point when it was interrupted by the thunderbolt he cannot remember the closing part of it, although he says the incidents of it happened to him this season, and he had told the story several times. The team was valued at $500.—Haverhill (Pa.) Dispatch.

THOSE ROGUSH GIRLS.

In Paterson They Worried a Car Conductor Until He Resigned His Job.

One of the shortest of New Jersey politicians is authority for the statement that Paterson girls have laughed him out of a job. He is an unusually hard some bachelor of 33 New Jersey winters and is known among his friends as one of the most bashful men in the state.

After the legislature adjourned his political friends got him appointed conductor of a Paterson trolley car. All would have gone well if the silk mill girls hadn't got talking about him among themselves. Their attention was attracted by seeing the good looking little conductor jump up to ring the bell or record a fare. This, though only moderately funny at first, grew in humor as each girl became conscious that other girls were watching him as they rode on his car from day to day. They called him "Shorty" among themselves, and soon it came about that if his car contained any silk mill girls they all sang in unison whenever a fare was rung up.

At length the bashful bachelor confided his trials to a friend. He was advised to hold on to his conductorship through the hard times. Accordingly he smothered his feelings for a time. One day the trolley got off the trolley wire, and he couldn't reach the rope that hangs from the arm. The car was standing still, and it was full of girls who had nothing to do but watch the little conductor. Every time he jumped and missed the rope the girls laughed.

This was too much. When the month ended, he notified the railroad company that he was going to leave to take a job at his former trade.—Paterson Standard.

A JOKE ON THE P. G.

He'd Give a Week's Salary to Know Who is the Best of the Party.

The postmaster general is in a fix. He wants to know who wrote it. About one week ago a correspondent for a western paper sent on a story to the effect that the postoffice department had decided to furnish a proof of each of the postage stamps issued by the department upon application for same. This item touched a responsive chord in the breasts of the great American public and was widely copied. The applications have begun to come in. Several hundred have come in on each mail for the past five days, and the number is increasing.

There is a deluge of this kind of mail matter, and to save the department from being swamped Postmaster General Bissell has been compelled to order printed a circular setting forth that the department is not distributing proofs of stamps and has also been compelled to transfer some of the clerical force of the department from legitimate work to the work of sending these circulars to the stamp applicants. The affair is regarded as a practical joke on the department, but General Bissell didn't regard it in that way when he said to The Star man, "I'd give a week's salary to know who wrote it."—Washington Star.

To Europe For $10.

To Europe for $10, including board and lodging, is the present rate of the competing steamship lines. Persons who make frequent trips first class cannot view the war in storage rates without some feelings of envy. The remarkable price of $10 for a trip of from seven to nine days, with good sanitary quarters, plenty of wholesome food and drink, and in a record breaking steamer at that, is one reason for the very large emigration during the past two months. Though the transatlantic companies are fighting the death for the storage rates, they display an altogether wonderful degree of indifference to first class passengers. Competition in this direction is apparently barred by a cast iron mutual agreement.—New York Sun.

THE NEXT CONGRESS.

The Washington Star, an independent newspaper, voices the rumor that the President is indifferent as to the political complexion of the next Congress. It says there is a suspicion in the minds of many of the members of the House that the President would actually prefer that the Republicans should have the responsibility of managing the affairs of the House of Representatives for the two last years of his Administration.

The experience of the President since he took office a year ago last March has been rather discouraging, and it is believed that he would like to have the responsibility divided during the two years immediately preceding the next Presidential election. The best informed think the next Congress, if not Republican, will pass a free coinage bill and it would not be agreeable for Cleveland to veto a silver bill just before the beginning of a Presidential campaign. The great fight in November will not be for a majority of the members of the House, but for a majority of the States, as the belief is general that the next President, in consequence of three candidates being in the field, will be elected by the House. This is one of several reasons why Nevada should elect an independent Congressman this year; one who will not vote for the nominee of either of the Wall Street twins for President.

If the election of President devolves upon the House of Representatives, Nevada will count for as much as New York or Pennsylvania, as each State will have but one vote, hence the necessity of electing a Congressman in this State who will not vote for a Cleveland or a Harrison or any other goldbug.

NEBRASKA POPULISTS

The People's party State Convention of Nebraska, which met at Grand Island last week, was largely attended by representative men. Senator Allen addressed the Convention at length. He warned the Convention that the people had success or defeat without their grasp. It was their duty to exercise great care in the selection of candidates. He urged harmony, and advised that nothing be done to create dissensions among the earnest advocates of reform, and his speech was concluded amid the most demonstrative applause.

The platform, which was unanimously adopted, emphasizes the demand for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. It brands as treason to the producing classes and to the best interests of the country the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act. It demands both National and State laws for the encouragement and promotion of the irrigation of arid and semi-arid lands. It demands that Congress shall speedily pass a law by which Federal courts will be prevented from suspending the operations of a State law at the dictation of corporations, and it demands compulsory arbitration of all controversies between employers and employees. The platform is silent regarding the sub-treasury scheme, but it favors Government ownership of railroads and telegraph lines.

In consequence of a division in the Republican ranks, because of opposition to the nomination of a railroad candidate for Governor, the Populists are confident of carrying the State. Editor Rosewater of the Omaha Bee, one of the leading Republican newspapers in the State, with leave from the National Republican Committee and declared that he would not support the ticket.

THE NEW TARIFF LAW.

The tariff bill passed by the present Congress goes into effect to-day. It places some articles heretofore dutiable on the free list and places a duty on sugar, which, under the McKinley act, was admitted free. Wool, on which there was a duty of 11 and 12 cents per pound, according to quality, is now admitted free and the duty on manufacturers of wool is materially reduced, but is still high enough to satisfy New England manufacturers, who can now get free wool.

Every argument that has been advanced in favor of free wool applies with equal force to free sugar, yet one is taxed and the other is not.

Horace Greeley, who in Whig days was an advocate of tariff, contended that duties were imposed on foreign products for the purpose of raising revenue for the support of the Government and giving employment to the people by encouraging home manufactures. If the latter purpose was the main object he argued that all the raw material that offered itself should be admitted free of duty. People could then be employed manufacturing it and the surplus could be sent to foreign markets to compete with English goods. That was the Whig idea of a tariff and it differs from the Republican and Democratic views of the matter, both of which are disposed to foster trusts at the expense of the people. Under Republican rule we had sugar, cordage, coal, iron, whisky and other trusts. Some of these, in the parlance of the day, have been "knocked out," but the sugar trust has had its lease extended by the new tariff bill.

Since the monopolies dominated A. C. Cleveland they have not had much to say about C. O. Wallace.

FILLMORE'S MANIFESTO.

It Does Not Suit C. P. Huntington—The S. P. President Shows His Pertinacious Nature by Squealing.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 27.—A fortnight ago a local newspaper printed an interview with J. A. Fillmore, General Superintendent of the Southern Pacific Railroad, in which he was quoted as follows: "If I knew that a man was not true to this company, and if I had out that he has got a job anywhere I will pursue him and use my best efforts to get him discharged."

The men referred to were, of course, A. R. U. men who took a prominent part in the recent strike on the Southern Pacific system. The interview provoked a storm of adverse criticism, which was mainly directed at the Southern Pacific Company, for there were many who charged that Mr. Fillmore had spoken with its authority. C. P. Huntington, President of the Company, has written a letter from New York in which he positively declares that Mr. Fillmore's reported policy is not the policy of the Southern Pacific Company.

Referring to the interview Mr. Huntington says: "I can hardly believe that Mr. Fillmore said this. If he did I think he was decidedly wrong. We, of course, owe it to ourselves and to the patrons of the road to refuse to take back men who destroyed any of our property or made any effort to prevent others from taking their places, but when we have done that, that is refused to take them back, I think we should wish them to get places elsewhere, if it could be done without injury to the public, and it is not our business to follow them, but when they go wish them well."

In closing his letter Mr. Huntington says: "I hope your people will consider these things carefully and bear in mind that in handling the great interests that we are caring for, it is not enough to look out for the rights of our own company, but also for the rights of every member of the community in which we are working and where our influence is felt."

The letter is made public by H. E. Huntington, assistant to the President.

The President Will Allow the Tariff Bill to Become a Law.

Washington, August 27.—President Cleveland to-day sent a letter to Representative Catchings in which he says he will allow the Tariff Bill to become a law without his signature. The President expresses great disappointment that the bill did not meet his wishes, but says there are provisions in the bill which are in line with honest tariff reform. The bill was surrounded by influences in its last stages which ought not to be tolerated in Democratic tariff reform councils and yet notwithstanding all its vices and bad treatment it received at the hands of its pretended friends, it presents a vast improvement to the existing conditions. I take my place with the rank and file of Democrats, who believe in tariff reform and know what it is to refuse to accept the results embodied in this bill by those who have marked the places where the deadly blight of treason blasted the councils of the brave in their hour of might. Trusts and combinations, the communism of self, whose machinations have prevented us from reaching the success we deserve, should not be forgotten or forgiven. We shall recover from our astonishment at their exhibition of power, if then the question is forced upon us whether they shall submit to the legislative will of the people's representatives or shall dictate laws which people must obey, we will accept and settle that issue as one involving integrity and safety of American institutions. Tariff reform will not be settled until it is honestly and fairly settled in the interests and to the benefit of a patient and long suffering people.

A Serious Accident On an Electric Road.

SAN FRANCISCO, August 27.—A serious accident occurred this afternoon on the Obenry street grade of the San Francisco and San Mateo electric road. The funeral car while returning from the cemetery became unmanageable and dashed down the grade at a terrific speed. Nearly all of the passengers were women, who became panic-stricken and rushed to the rear platform. Several jumped and were thrown violently to the ground. Mrs. Henry Hortsman, Mrs. LaPorte and Mrs. Welch were so seriously injured that they were removed to St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. Hortsman is still unconscious and will probably die. The car ran on and crashed into another coach but did no serious damage. Two fatal runaways have occurred previously on this grade.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

A Large Attendance at the Encampment.

WASHINGTON, August 27.—The flag over Camp George Washington was lowered to half-mast to-day on account of the death of Congressman Shaw of Eau Claire, Wis. Past Supreme Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias.

Three hundred additional tents from the War Department were raised to-day, making the total number 2,000, but there were still reports of overcrowding, and the Washington divisions, which have tented with visitors, gave their quarters to Michigan. The number in camp is about 10,000. Crack companies are drilled on the monument grounds before hundreds of spectators. It will hurt Pullman more than the strike.

HIAWATHA, Kas., August 27.—A Company of ex-employees of Pullman, Ill., backed by capital, has been organized to build car and manufacturing shops at Hiawatha, Brown county. The citizens have taken $50,000 in stock and Chicago capitalists $30,000. Louis Meyer, president, and C. O. Allen, secretary will be in Hiawatha Tuesday to select a site.

C. O. Allen is the inventor of a new palace sleeping car for which Mr. Pullman offered him $75,000 and a New York company $67,000 and royalty.

The company will be managed on the co-operative plan. The company has control of five patents and will be manufacturers of all kinds of railway equipment. Eight hundred ex-employees of the Pullman shops will come here and begin building for the works as soon as the preliminary arrangements are made.

General Dimond's Reasons.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—Gov. Markham has made public General Dimond's report of the action of the National Guard at Sacramento during the strike. General Dimond attributes the failure of the campaign to the fact that his orders for soldiers to take two day's rations were not obeyed for some reason; also that some one unknown interfered with his program at Sacramento by ordering the troops to disembark at 21st street, instead of proceeding direct to the depot, and that General Dickinson refused to obey an order from General Sheehan to occupy clear to the end of the depot. Marshal Baldwin is also blamed for insisting in taking troops from the head of the column to guard bridges, which action demoralized the soldiers and encouraged the strikers.

Budd at Stockton.

STOCKTON, August 27.—James H. Budd, Democratic nominee for Governor, was given an enthusiastic reception to-night upon his arrival home from the State Convention. Several Republicans served with the Democrats on the Reception Committee.

Probably a Suicide.

LOS ANGELES, August 27.—Police Commissioner Thos. J. Weldon was found dead in his room this morning. A partially emptied bottle of morphine suggests the idea of suicide but his friends doubt it. Weldon was cashier of the California Bank in this city.

Saved Her Life.

Mrs. C. J. WOODBRIDGE, of Wortham, Texas, saved the life of her child by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

"One of my children had Croup. The case was attended by our physician, and was supposed to be well under control. One night I was startled by the child's loud wheezing, and on going to it found it struggling. It had nearly ceased to breathe. Realizing that the child's alarming condition had become possible in spite of the medicines given, I reasoned that such a remedy would be of no avail. Having part of a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house, I gave the child three doses at short intervals, and previously undisturbed. From the moment the first dose was given, the child's breathing grew easier, and, in a short time, she was sleeping quietly and breathing naturally. The child is now alive and well, and I do not hesitate to say that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved her life."

THE LAST SAD RITES.

The Remains of the G. O. P. Laid Away at Reno.

Yesterday at Reno witnessed the closing scenes of the obsequies of the Republican party of Nevada. Although very elaborate preparations had been made for the funeral the attendance was not what was expected. It had been arranged to have it later in the month, but the committee having the affair in charge finding that decomposition was setting in changed the date of the final interment. The corpse was liberally supplied with ice on Thursday and Friday in order to make it presentable. It lay there in a plain casket, the lumber composing it having been furnished by Yerington & Bliss of the Tahoe Flume Company.

Parson Fulton read the burial sermon in a voice choked with emotion, and made a few timely remarks. "The awful cloud of grief now overshadowing us has a silver lining," remarked Mr. Fulton impressively.

At the preacher's allusion to silver there was quite a commotion, and several of the most loved friends of the deceased interrupted the speaker, but were finally quieted by the singing of the hymn, "There is a Golden Dawn." Two choir consisted of Messrs. Colcord, Poudjide and Bliss, basses; Bartine and Colhu, tenors; H. M. Yerlington and Allan Bragg, sopranos.

An old horse fiddle supported by the Reno Calathumpian Band furnished the music, led by Mr. McKinnon of the Enterprise, who presided at the organ.

The closing hymn, "Over the Carson River," with music composed by John Meder, was sung, all hands standing. There was not a dry eye in the house. The cut flowers, sent by a number of ex-Republican office holders who skipped to California after being defeated for nominations, arrived in time but were badly withered. After the hymn the congregation took a last look at the remains, and then the little procession started for the cemetery. The following were the pall bearers: Frank Emmett, Richard Rising, E. D. Vanderleith, George Richards, O. H. Gray and J. Torreyson.

Telegrams of condolence were received from goldbugs in Wall and Lombard streets and gave the chief mourners great comfort. After the obsequies Enoch Strother was appointed a committee of one to draft resolutions of respect for the dead to be printed in typewriter and circulated among the friends of the deceased.—Carson Appeal.

Mr. Clough and his assistants finished the house, had it lathed and plastered and ready for the finishing touch of the painters within a little over two weeks after the stone mason began laying the foundation. The work on the house is all first-class (Mr. Clough will do no other) and intending builders are invited to inspect it.

THE MILITARY ENCAMPMENT.

The First Day—The Companies Assembling—The Promise of a Good Meeting.

The encampment of the Nevada State Militia is now in progress at Treadway's Park, Carson, and for the remaining days of this week promises to be of lively interest to spectators as well as to participants.

There are in all about 250 men, including regimental officers, members of the artillery and other officers.

At 10:30 in the morning all participating companies were on the ground working like beavers, and at noon all the tents were up, picket lines established, guards placed on duty and military order was in force.

Beside five staff officer's tents, one tent for hospital service and one for a guard house, there are five long rows of tents for the use of the various companies, arranged in the following order: Company A, Company C, Company F, Company B, Battery A.

Colonel F. C. Lord is the commanding officer of the encampment and Lieutenant S. L. Falsen, of the U. S. Army stationed at the Presidio, is Military Instructor.

Dr. S. L. Lee, of Carson, is the Surgeon General and Joe Johnson hospital steward.

All day long great crowds of enthusiastic spectators flooded the grounds.

There was a full dress parade at 6:30 o'clock last evening.

Commissioner McLaughlin has an Exciting Experience.

Our worthy Commissioner W. P. McLaughlin and wife and John Michaels and wife took a trip to Lake Tahoe last week. It is not often that Mc takes a trip, in fact it has been a long time since he has been out of sight of Reno. As the party ascended the mountain via Galena Creek Mc trailed Michaels buggy, and in this way kept pretty well "in the middle of the road." At the summit Mr. Michaels concluded that Mc would find the lake if he kept going down hill, so he gave the whip to his horse and was soon out of sight. Mc being a more cautious driver proceeded slowly, and after getting within a mile or two of the lake he turned on a wood road and began climbing the mountain again, he traveled about five miles and found a stray Chinaman whom he employed to guide him to the lake. Mc was uneasy and did not enjoy the scenery, nor did the sighing and moaning of the breeze through the big pine trees and shrubbery bring any romantic thoughts to his mind. He only expressed himself to his wife now and then that he was glad the wind wasn't blowing hard for the trees might fall, and wondered now and then if there were any bears in the neighborhood, and remarked that this trip was worse than being a County Commissioner. Finally a break in the timber gave a view of the lake. Mc stopped the horse and took a long look, then turned to his wife and said: "I wonder if that is all water?" Reaching Incline Mc became reassured and it was proposed to make a tour of the lake.

The steamer came along and the party was soon on board. Mc sat close to his wife and ever and anon would look back at the receding shore and inquire if there was any danger of getting out of sight of land, and if the water was very deep out in the lake. The wind had gradually risen and the steamer began to pitch and roll, and a thunder storm came up, the grandeur of which most anyone would have enjoyed. Not so with Mc, however, he became more and more uneasy and when he saw one of the officers of the steamer approach a life-boat and loosen up some of the tackle he grabbed his wife by the arm and shouted, "my goodness they are getting the life-boats out and we'll all go to the bottom." He was quieted and in a little while all were safely on shore. Then Mc began laughing much as he does when making a good sale, and shook hands with all the party, saying, "how do brother" to the ladies and gentlemen as well as the Chinese wood-choppers who happened to be standing near the landing. It is said he shook hands with Mrs. McLaughlin seven times, calling her "brother" each time. Mc returned to Reno O. K., and is now prepared to give the lowest prices on fancy groceries, staples, etc. He has a choice line of hams, bacon, dried beef and the latest and freshest fruits. See his published list in another column.

The Weather.

The indications on Sunday evening were favorable for a heavy storm, but only a slight shower occurred in the valley. Yesterday the atmosphere was very sultry, and a thunder storm was looked for, but did not materialize. While a good rain would be a pleasant thing to have just now, it would not be a blessing, for at this time of the year a heavy rain would do great damage to the farmers. A little later and it will be welcome, for by that time the hay will be stacked, grain gathered and all will be prepared for it.

The Races.

Letters received from the northern country are indicative of an increasing interest in the Jockey Club races here the first week in October. The change of date has proven advantageous and there will be a big string of horses on hand. Everything points to a successful meeting and a large crowd of visitors.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Gentlemen:—I ought to make known my experience with Hood's Sarsaparilla, so that others afflicted may learn where to find a remedy for that serious and obstinate disease, catarrh. It troubled me seriously. I had a dull aching sensation in the top of my head, and the usual discharge from the nose. I became so bad that mornings I could do nothing but hawk and spit. My lungs were also being terribly affected, and had it not been for Hood's Sarsaparilla, I would have died.'

A Consumptive's Grave
long ago. I have taken about ten bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, which have effectually cured me. Before resorting to this medicine, I used all the catarrh remedies, inhalants and local application, I heard of. None seemed to reach the seat of the disease. In fact I grew worse while using them. I owe my cure to the blood purifying powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MINNIE M. KEYSER, Pataskala, Ohio.

RAW BEEF FOR WHOLESALE.

A Girl Who Used It Lost Her Weight.

Joseph Slavinski, a tailor of Reno, Nevada, was to have been married to Rosa Slavinski, a neighbor, when he had left company for a year. In about a month, he was known all over Reno, Nevada, for his looks and had many admirers. He met Slavinski. One day last week (Slavinski) wrote to Rosa breaking off the engagement and requesting her to return a diamond ring and a silk umbrella which he had given her. She refused, and Slavinski had her in the Second district civil court in Broadway, Williamsburg, on a summons to explain why he refused to return the articles. When Judge Patterson was told that raw beef had caused the engagement to be broken, he said to the girl:

"If you have used raw beef on your face, it's had good effect, for it undoubtedly has drawn out some hidden beauty."

The justice added that as long as Slavinski had given the ring and the umbrella to Rosa they were her property. —New York Dispatch.

They Have It In Atlanta.

Atlanta is quick to catch on to all the latest fads. It was announced not long ago that the milkmen of London in order to alleviate all suspicion of adulterated milk drove their herd of milkers through the streets and extracted the lactical fluid in front of the residences of their customers. An Atlanta milkman has started in the footsteps of the Londoners. Every morning soon after daylight a milkman may be seen moving along Fulton street with a herd of 100,000 milkers, stopping here and there in front of the residences long enough to milk one of the cows. The cows are well drilled and have learned to take care of every customer. The sight is a unique one, and it serves to illustrate the statement that Atlanta is keeping pace with the latest fads.

The Last Hair Turns Up.

A Londoner who graduated as the village barber of the village of Bath, and who served over 20 years in the hair of a person who claims to be the last of the world's hair, has been the subject of the title and estate. The claimant describes himself as Lord St. Mann, who was supposed to have been dead for 20 years. He was accidentally wounded by a bear while shearing in India and died soon after. The claimant admits the encounter with the bear, but says he escaped from him by climbing a tree and was taken up by the Russians and kept for a considerable period.

GRAPE ON TROLLEY CARS.

That's What They Have in Binghamton

After One Has Been Killed by Them.

"While reading of the numerous trolley accidents in Brooklyn," said Alderman Benda of Binghamton a few days ago, "it occurred to me that Brooklyn lines would do well to adopt a unique custom which, as far as I know, is peculiar to Binghamton car lines. In our city the trolleys occupy all the principal streets, but the motormen are very careful, and it is seldom that there is an accident. Last winter, however, a man was run down and killed. The exact details of the accident have slipped my memory, but I believe that no blame was attached to the motorman.

When that particular car appeared on the following day, it was a sight to be seen. Long streams of grape float, daintily out from the sides, black and white rosettes ornamented the spaces between the windows and conductor and motorman wore badges of mourning. Not only that, but every car on that line was draped with black, and all the trolley cars in the city displayed in one way or another some sign of mourning. It was really quite imposing.

"If they could only import that idea in Brooklyn," continued the alderman thoughtfully, "I think it would be a long step toward trolley reform. They seem to be reforming everything else but the trolleys there. Draping the cars of each line for, say three days after any unfortunate had met his death on that particular line, would enable people to keep a sort of count, besides being a graceful tribute of sorrow on the part of the trolley company. Moreover, the enormous expense for grape, to which the companies would be subjected would undoubtedly have the effect of making the motormen more careful.

"Oh, I tell you, there are lots of things that the bigger cities can learn of Binghamton!"—Brooklyn Citizen.

PEARL HARBOR, HAWAII.

Lieutenant Wood Says It Can Easily Be Made One of the Finest In the World.

After a stay of six weeks on Ford's island—six weeks of hard work for both officers and men—Lieutenant Wood and his party have returned from Pearl harbor with as complete a set of surveys as it is possible to take. The result shows that Pearl harbor, if taken in hand by the United States, will make the finest possible bay in the world and at the same time, compared with the final result, is almost nominal. Lieutenant Wood was asked yesterday in regard to the work accomplished and said:

"We have been at the harbor for just six weeks and two days and have it that time made 28 borings and over 1,500 soundings. The survey has been a very complete one, and I have data enough to make a close estimate on the cost of all the work that will be necessary in making the harbor one of the finest in the world. Not a piece of coral has been encountered in the borings, and it would only require a comparatively small amount of dredging to give a depth of 30 feet on the bar at low tide. A peculiar formation of one of the coral banks on each side of the channel was discovered that will be a great help in the work of disposing of the sand as it is dredged out.

"The more I see of Pearl harbor the more I am impressed with its military and commercial advantages. I have visited all the principal harbors of the world, with the exception of Sydney, and I have never seen any one that can compare in any way with this one. Twenty miles of wharves could be built there cheaper than any other place in the world, as the deep water is so close to the shores. Complete maps and charts of the work done will be made as soon as possible and forwarded to Washington."

—Pacific Commercial Advertiser.

ORIENTAL ARMIES.

Military Strength of China and Japan of Special Interest Just Now.

In view of the possible unpleasantness between China and Japan over Korea the following account of the military strength of the two powers is not without interest. The military force of China consists of the army of Man churia, 70,000 men, many of them armed with the Mauser rifle, with a liberal supply of Krupp field cannon; the army of the center, 50,000 men in time of peace, but which is capable of being increased to 600,000. Her navy comprises 1 first class battleship, 1 second class, 3 third class, 9 port defense vessels, 9 second class cruisers, 47 third class, 2 first class torpedo boats, 26 second class, 18 third class and 2 smaller boats.

Japan's army on a peace footing is about 60,000, but she has a reserve strength of nearly 200,000. Her fleet is a purely defensive force. It comprises 2 armored cruisers and 22 third class cruisers.

Central Asia In the Nineteenth Century.

Some details of the late Russian explorer Projevalski's last journey through the difficult wilds of central Asia have just reached London. Some of the novel superstitions of the natives are amazing. For instance, orders were given by the native authorities that no one should all land to the Russians, for the Chi nese had said, and then that the Russian would plant willow trees, which would grow with extraordinary rapidity and would claim all the land in shadow.

Another story which was believed was that the natural history cases contained the eyes of Russian soldiers, which the explorer would hatch out into white serpents of troops. General Projevalski himself was supposed to bear a human life. A more useful myth was that any Russian article if stolen would begin to cry out, "I am here," till it was rescued.
